Millions of people in Canada and the United States are suffering through abysmal air quality this summer due to wildfires.

However, this unfortunate event should be understood as a window to the past, not the future.

Ever since we mastered fire, humanity has suffered from air pollution. Now, thanks to growing global prosperity, much of the world is moving towards cleaner air.

*Pessimism sells, which is strange.
But the scientific evidence shows that optimism is a lot more sensible.
Stop weeping.
Read the book and smile.*
